

Seagrass Coffins

Our Seagrass material is renowned for its quality and durability, which makes it an ideal material for woven products. As the name implies, Seagrass is indeed a grass and sea water does play a part in production. Our Seagrass is grown in paddy fields, and at a certain point during the growing season the fields are flooded with sea water. It is highly renewable and comes from environments where sustainability practices are employed. Once harvested, Seagrass is dried and then spun into a strong yarn ready for weaving.

Traditional seagrass coffin shape with rope handles

Traditional seagrass coffin shape with rope handles

Curved end seagrass coffin with rope handles

Close up showing the natural seagrass weave and rope handle

Close up showing wooden nameplate attached seagrass round ashes urn with curved end coffin

Banana Coffins

Our Banana coffins are made from the leaves of the banana plant. In the process of making the banana coffins the leaves are removed carefully and spun into long yarns and woven around a natural tohiti frame making them strong, lightweight and golden coloured in appearance.

Banana leaves are fast growing, freely available and are 100% completely natural and biodegradable. The Coffins are available in the Traditional or Curved end shape and each come with a fitted natural cotton liner.

Close up showing the coffin liner

Close up showing the Banana Coffin with rope handles

Close up showing the coffin liner

Close up showing the Banana leaf weave

Curved end Banana coffin with rope handles

Traditional Banana coffin shape with rope handles

Cane Coffins

We are very proud of our Cane coffins. Cane is very environmentally friendly due to the fact that it is very fast growing – as much as six metres a year. Cane grows in degraded forests, in marginal soil or in areas where other land products cannot grow – for example areas that remain flooded for long periods of time. In addition, Cane clings to existing tropical rainforest trees and so actively encouraging the preservation of trees in the rainforest. It can be introduced artificially in natural forests without disturbing the existing natural eco system. It provides an income to some of the poorest people living in, and around the rainforests.

Curved end Cane coffin with rope handles

Close up showing the detail of the natural Cane weave and rope handle

Close up showing the weave of a traditional Cane coffin

Curved end Cane coffin with rope handles

Traditional Cane coffin shape with rope handles

Cocostick Coffins

Our cocostick coffins are made out of stems from the leaves of coconut palms which are fast growing by-products of the coconut tree. In the process of making cocostick, the leaves are dried out and stems separated producing tiny sticks which are strung together to produce the attractive natural colour variation that you can see.

The coffins are available in the Traditional coffin shape and each comes with a fitted natural cotton liner.

Cocostick ashes casket

Traditional cocostick coffin

Close up showing the cocostick weave and rope handle

Close up showing the coffin liner

Loom Coffins

Our loom coffins are made from natural paper which is spun into long yarns and woven around a tohiti frame. They have an off brown colour with cream coloured cane implemented into the design. The Loom coffins are available in the Curved end shape and come with a natural fitted cotton liner.

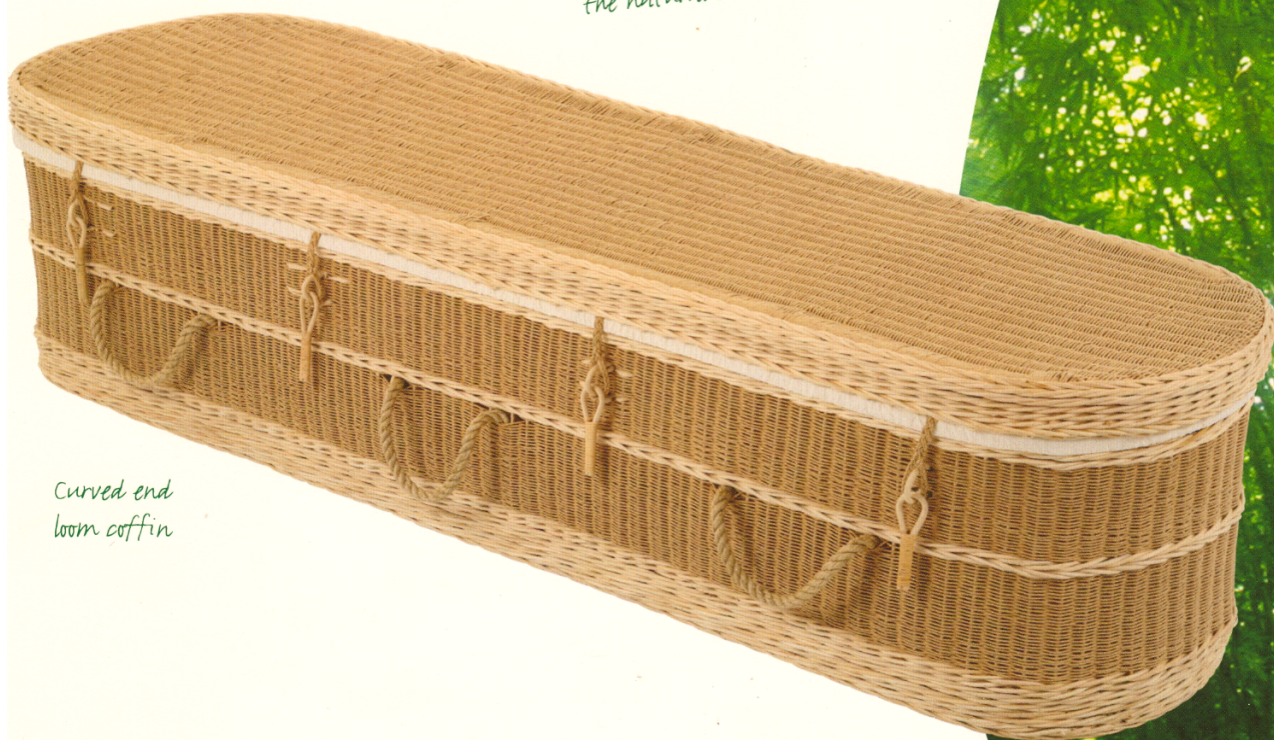

Loom coffin showing liner

Close up showing the detail of the rope handle

Close up showing the detail of the natural loom weave

Curved end loom coffin

Willow Coffins

Willow coffins are by far the ultimate in environmental recycling. Willow is grown in rows of bushes, and once harvested can generate back to same height within a year. Willow has been known to grow up to 3 meters tall annually and has the ability to degrade much more quickly than conventional hardwoods.

Our Willow coffins are handcrafted by skilled workers using traditional methods, the Coffins are available in the Traditional or Curved end shape and each come with a fitted natural cotton liner.

Willow Coffin close up

Close up showing the Willow Coffin weave and rope handle

Close up showing the coffin liner

NATURAL
WOVEN PRODUCTS

PART OF THE SOMERSET WILLOW COMPANY

Tel: 01278 588011 Fax: 01278 588183 E-mail: contact@naturalwovenproducts.co.uk www.naturalwovencoffins.co.uk

NATURAL WOVEN Colours range[®]

Our Natural Woven Colours range of coffins are unique and colourful and are a perfect compliment to your loved ones. They are available in the following colours, Red, Yellow, Orange, Blue, Black, Purple, Pink and Green. All are completely natural and are coloured using natural dyes. The coffins are available in two shapes, Curved end and Traditional, both come with fitted cotton liners.

Traditional coffin in red

Close up showing a curved end coffin in purple

Close up showing a traditional coffin in black

Close up showing a traditional coffin in red

Available in the following colours:

Red

Orange

Black

Pink

Yellow

Blue

Purple

Green

